Day 6: Sauðárkrúkur

Sauðárkrúkur is the largest town in Northwest Iceland with a population of 2,612. This is great place to soothe your mind in the natural geothermal pool.

Grættislaug pool: A geothermal pool that is about 39°C (100°F) year round. Located by the seaside with amazing views, this pool has been constructed with natural stones.

Day 5: Egilsstaðir

Egilsstaðir is the main centre for service, transportation and administration in East Iceland.

East Fjords: this is one of the most remote places in Iceland, and there will often be no other soul in sight except nesting puffins on the cliffs from afar.

Day 1-2: Reykjavík

Halgrímskirkja Church: The beautiful basalt columns at Svartfoss waterfall inspired the church's architecture. The concert organ is 15m tall, has 5275 pipes, and weighs 25 tons. This church is open daily, except on Sundays, when there are mass services.

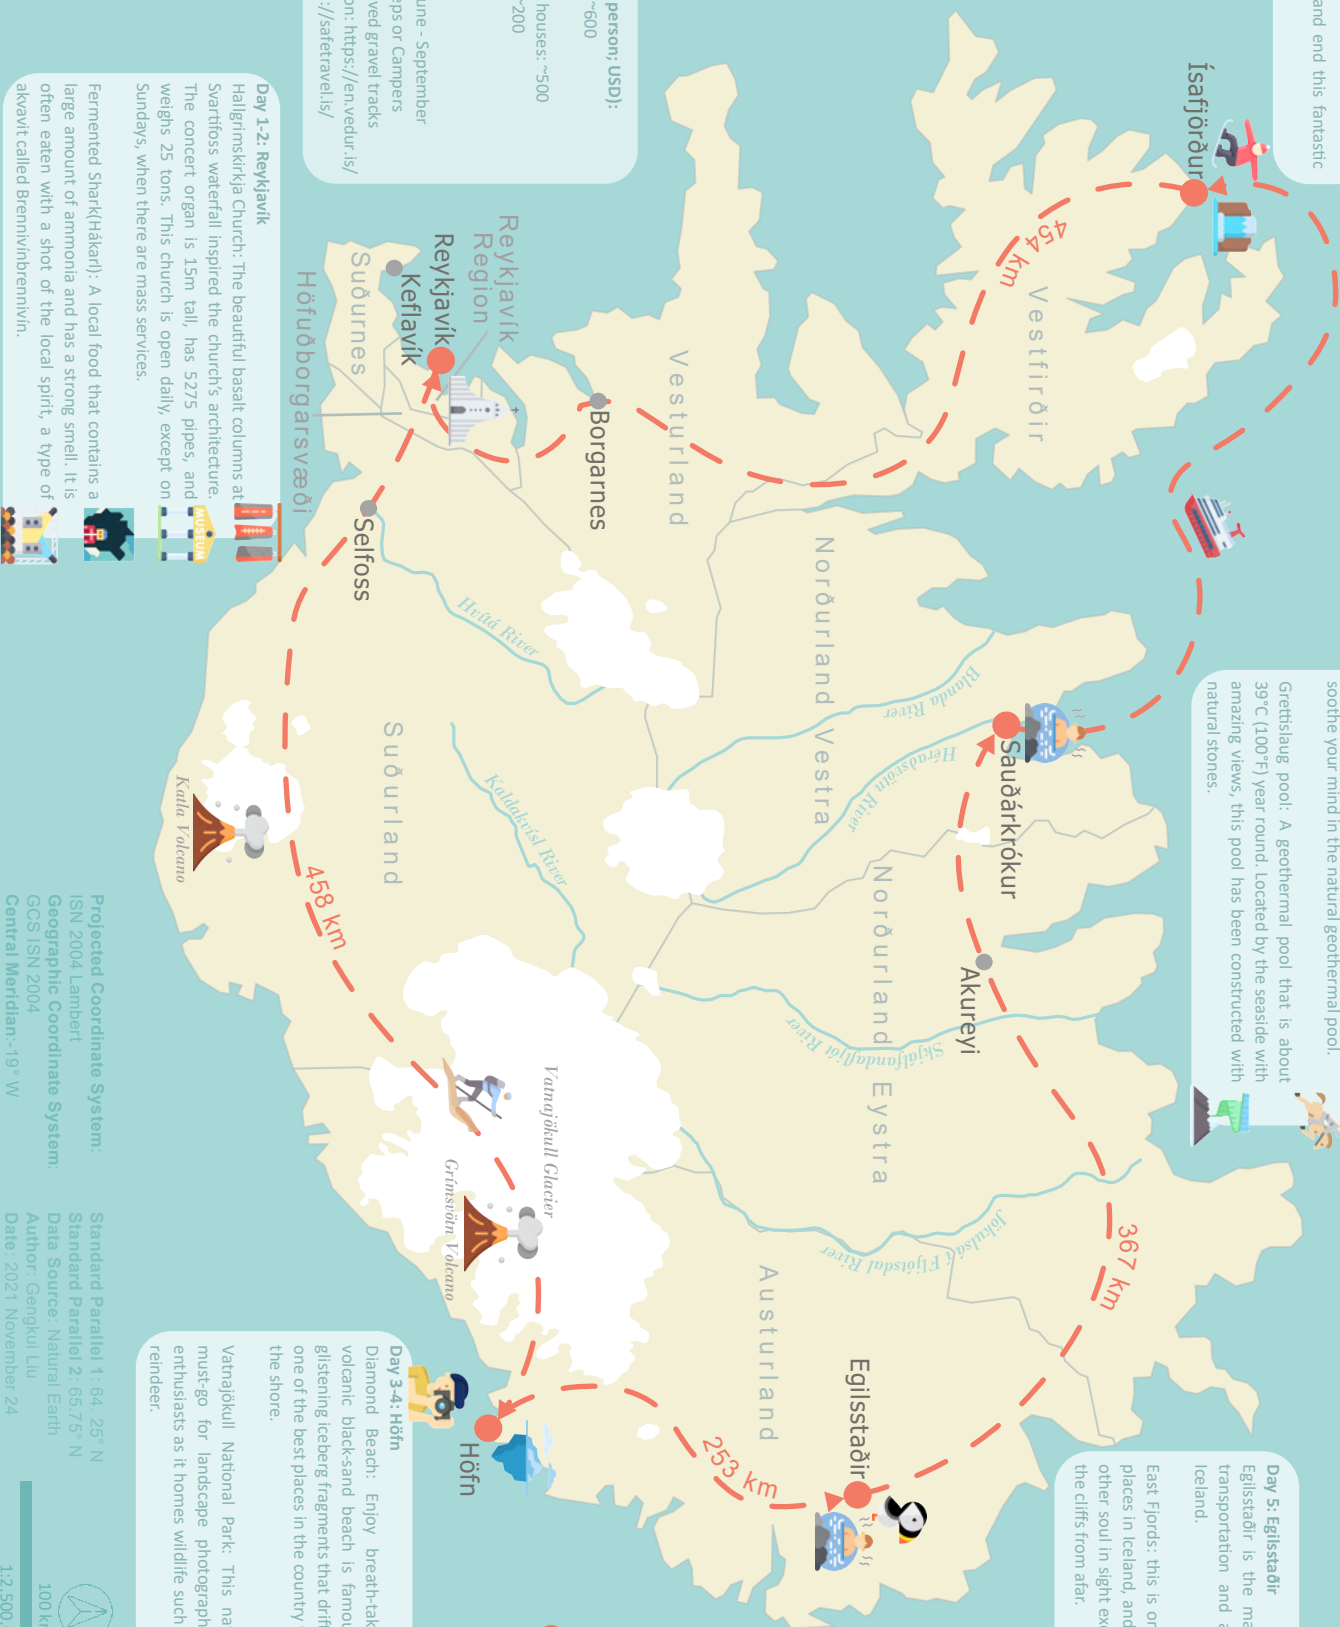

Fermented Shark(Hákarl): A local food that contains a large amount of ammonia and has a strong smell. It is often eaten with a shot of the local spirit, a type of akavitt called Brennivín(brenninn).

- Must-go City
- Optional City

Day 3-4: Höfn

Diamond Beach: Enjoy breath-taking views! This volcanic black-sand beach is famous for the huge, glistening iceberg fragments that drift ashore. It is also one of the best places in the country to see orcas from the shore.

Vatnajökull National Park: This national park is a must-go for landscape photographers and wildlife enthusiasts as it homes wildlife such as orca, seal and reindeer.
